

Abstract of the Disclosure

Viral vectors comprising a therapeutic agent are non-covalently bound directly to a cell-targeting ligand, such as transferrin. These vectors can be administered to a host animal to deliver the therapeutic agent to target cells within the host animal.